

SAN DIEGO CHARGERS vs BOSTON PATRIOTS
Balboa Stadium - - San Diego, California
Sunday, January 5, 1964

The San Diego Chargers and the Boston Patriots--the 1964 American Football League Championship game. The weather in San Diego at game time is excellent---a beautiful day--with a light wind blowing from the North-West at 11 miles-per-hour. The temperature is 71 degrees. A sunny sky--with no clouds--visability excellent.

Several players from both squads are taking part in today's game--that have been injured during the past few weeks. The one notable from Boston--is Ron Burton--who has been injured all season--and returned to the Patriot lineup only just before the playoff game with the Buffalo Bills. Tebin Rote--suffering from arm trouble seems to be in good shape again for the Chargers. Dick Westmoreland returns to the San Diego defense after being out of action for several weeks with injuries.
